

Now in its twenty-second year, Columbia University's Summer Program for High School Students in New York City offers pre-college enrichment programs for students entering grades 9 through 12. These programs are renowned for their academic rigor, instructional excellence, and the unique opportunity they provide for highly motivated students to experience college life at a world-class university.

A special feature of the 2009 program is a series of new courses in the arts developed in conjunction with Columbia's prestigious School of the Arts. We greatly appreciate your forwarding the attachment from Gregory Amenoff, Chair of the Visual Arts Program, to your visual arts department and faculty.

Additional information and an information session video are available on our Web site: www.ce.columbia.edu/hs. If you'd like to request copies of our brochure, or if you have any questions about our programs, you may reach us at 212-854-9699 or by e-mail at hsp@columbia.edu.

Thank you for sharing these materials with your students and faculty. We look forward to hearing from students interested in experiencing a taste of college life in one of Columbia University's Summer High School Programs.

Darlene Giraitis

Director, Secondary School Programs

dg9@columbia.edu